EARLY SEASON REPORTS INDICATE GOOD FISHING

Although trout fishing conditions were not yet ideal on some of the larger streams of the state on the opening day due to high and muddy water, reports received from anglers who visted their favorite haunts during the past few days indicate that this will be one of the best trout fishing seasons in recent years, according to the Touring Bureau of the California State Automobile Association.

Anglers who visted the smaller streams this week reported a good measure of success and stated that the larger streams showed every indication of furnishing an abundance of sport as soon as high waters recede and clear up.

FRIENDLY INDIANS AID REAL INDIAN BOY

The "Friendly Indians" of Redwood City sent in their first money this week toward helping a real Indian boy. The seven tribes of Friendly Indians in San Mateo county have chosen two Indian boys who are attending the Phoenix Indian Schiol. The one chosen by the three Redwood tribes is Dennis Sinquah, a Hopi Indian. The other is Teddy Kisto, a Prima, who will be helped by the other tribes. These boys have been carefuly chosen and so as to insure that the funds will be used to the best advantage, the money is sent to one of their teachers who will see to it that the money is well spent.

The "Friendly Indians" who are boys 9 to 12 years of age under the Y. M. C. A. program have dues of one cent a week all of which goes into a fund for helping some real Indian boy. There are close to fifty "Friendly Indians" in the three Redwood City tribes.

LOCAL ATTORNEY TALKS BEFORE REALTY STUDENTS

Lee Ross, attorney of this city, was the speaker at an address on real estate investments and investment mortgages before the students of the San Mateo-Burlingame Realty Board course which is given under the auspices of the University of Southern California. This was the 26th and last of a series of lectures on real estate subjects given by the San Mateo-Burlingame Realtors Association. Graduation of the class will be held soon with appropriate exercises, at which time diplomas will be awarded.

FIVE POINTS KILLER RELEASED IN COURT

Tomasa Rae, arrested several weeks ago as the result of the stab bing of Claudio Degladillo at Five Points, was released at a preliminary hearing in the court of Justice of the Peace Ray Griffin Thursday afternoon. The evidence adduced showed that in killing Degladillo, Rae acted in self defense.

Mateo Garvan, in whose yard the killing took place, and who is charged with having sold liquor to both parties of the affair, was also given a preliminary hearing Thursday and was held over to the Superior court on a charge of illegal sale of liquor.

The fight in which Degladillo was killed followed an all night orge of gambling in a Five Points pool room, and has resulted in a movement to clean up the section where it occured. One result of the movement will be an election to vote upon the annexation of this distrit to this city to be held on June 8th.

SUPERVISORS BUY NEW EQUIPMENT FOR HOSPITAL

The purchase of a new anaesthetic applying machine for the Community hospital was approved by the board of supervisors at their meeting last Monday. This action was taken upon the advise of County Purchasing Agent E. H. Werder, who submitted a list of supplies necessary, including an improved X-Ray machine. This was laid over by the board as it felt that it could get a better turn in value for the old machine.

S.P. GATEMAN DIES SUDDENLY AT HOME

Walter H. Morrissey, for the past five years gateman at a crossing of the Southern Pacific Railway here, passed away suddenly at his home on Cedar street, Thursday. Morrissey mentioned in the morning having a pain in his lungs, but thought it nothing serious.

Later in the day George E. Morrissey, step-son of the deceased with whom he made his home, left the house and went to town to make some purchases. Upon his return he found that his stepfather had passed away. Indications lead to the belief that he had been taken ill suddenly and had tried to reach his bed. He had fallen, however, on the floor before reaching there.

Dr. J. H. Dykes was summoned but found that the man was already dead when he arrived. The cause of death, he states, was double pneumonia.

The deceased was a native of Wisconsin and was 74 years of age. He leaves two step sons, George E. and James Morrissey, the former a resident of this city, the latter of San Francisco. Two brothers, James M. of Leeds City, South Dakota, and John Morrissey of Lake Geneva, Wisconsin, and a sister, Mrs. Alice Krause of Chicago, alos survive.

Funeral services will be held this afternoon from the parlors of the James Crowe Company with Rev. C. H. Parker officiating. Interment will be in Cypress Lawn cemetery.

EXCHANGE CLUB DEFEATS GOLFERS AT BASEBALL

When the Emerald Lake Golf Club defeated the Exchange Club's baseball team on the high school diamond several weeks ago, they little realized what a vegneance they had in store for them. The Exchangites last Sunday exchanged defeat for victory, and with a score of 14 to 4 sent the golfers back to their bunkers among the hills.

In the second game, the forces of the Emerald Lake Golfers and the Exchange Club played seven innings of umpireless baseball. The outcome was Golfers 1, Exchange Club 14. Bill Curran retired in favor of Cy Bunday for the Golfers and he made a strike out record. Ray Minor of the Golfers made their only run when he golfed out a homer.

"Pep" Griffin chucked nice ball for the Exchangites and had fairly decent support.

A fine crowd was in attendance and it is a handsome sum of money will be realized for the new electric sign on the highway.

At the regular meeting of the Exchange Club Tuesday evening, Coach Griffin thanked the members of his team for their support. He says that certain coast league teams are scouting Ed Scott, Wes Locker, "Chucker" Griffin, Bill Curran "Len" Gray and "Jerry" Donovan, the umpire.

WOODSIDE

Mrs. J. A. Folger also left her home here last week to spend a few days at Carmel.

A large force of men began work on Thursday at the O'Brien property clearing away brush to make way for the tractors and steam shovels that will have the duty of road building in this new tract.

Carl Anderson journeyed to Modesto last week to arrange for the harvesting of the crop from his apricot orchard there. While there he supervised the thinning of the peaches on his peach trees. He expects a large crop of both apricots and peaches.

John J. Kelley and family had a narrow escape from serious injury on Sunday last. While coming down the King's Mountain grade the brakes on their car gave way and to prevent going over the grade. Mr. Kelley turned the car into the bank. The car turned completely over throwing the occupants free of the car without serious injury to any of them.

Max Jitner, head gardener on the J. A. Folger place, suffered heart failure Monday afternoon and was found lying dead under a tree by Oscar Blackington, superintendent of the estate. There being no relatives in this part of the country, the funeral was arranged by friends at Burlingame.

Dr. and Mrs. Alanson Weeks entertained a house party of eight over the last week end.

Mr. and Mrs. F. H. Mighall entertained an even dozen of their friends at cards on Saturday night.

The Woodside summer residents are arriving rapidly and by the first of the month the quota will be nearly complete. Dr. and Mrs. Herbert Moffitt of San Francisco expect to move into their new home on Saturday. Theirs is a very attractive house occupying the site of the old C. K. Macintosh home that was burned about two years ago. Mrs. Dr. Somers has left for Europe but the Somer's home has been leased to D. Volkman who has already taken possession. The Edward Harrison home, adjoining the James J. Fagan place, is rapidly nearing completion and will soon be ready for occupancy.

Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Gallagher spent their first week end away from Woodside since their home was completed last fall. They journeyed last week into the Yosemite valley, but they have returned today and will be here until the middle of June when they plan a trip of several months into Canada.

At a quiet wedding at the Congregational church in Redwood City last Wednesday noon, Miss Florence Calista Harris became the bride of Edward Campbell Jones of Woodside. Rev. R. J. Currie performed the ceremony. The bride was attended by Mrs. Nathan B. Bowers, while Mr. Bowers acted as best man. Following the ceremony the couple left for a honeymoon to be spent in the south. They will then make their home in Woodside.

PURCHASING AGENT STATES THAT ALL ALCOHOL PURCHASED WAS USED FOR INSTITUTIONS OF THE COUNTY

Speaking of the reports printed this week in some of the newspapers of this county charging a misuse of alcohol purchased by the county, Ernest Werder, county purchasing agent, who is charged in the statements issued with having misappropriated the alcohol, stated that the statments are entirely without foundation.

"The statements published yesterday in county papers," said Werder "relative to a shortage in the alcohol supply of the county are entirely misleading and far from the real facts. They would tend to create the impression that during the period from January 1, 1925, to April 30, 1926, thirty-seven gallons of alcohol were diverted to illegal use.

"This assumption is based upon the fact that the records of my office and those of the Community Hospital fail to tally. Our method of checking the alcohol, however accounts for this. The hospital has been accustomed to draw alcohol as needed either by requisition or by telephone and it has not been considered necessary to have signed orders or receipts for such deliveries. For instance 6 gallons of alcohol were delivered to the hospital by me on Thursday, May 13th, in response to a telephonic request and without a requisition. This is only one of many such instances. As I understand the law, no requisition is necessary for such withdrawals and as all alcohol taken from the county barrel was for the use of county institutions, I can not see where there can be any question or irregularity in the matter.

"The original permit to obtain government alcohol for county use was obtained in 1921. Previous to this the county paid $8 per gallon for alcohol required for use at the Relief Home and hospital. Under the permit alcohol has since been purchased for seventy-five cents per gallon. The first barrel bought under the permit was delivered to the County Relief Home on the Halfmoon Bay road; but Superintendent James R. Eubanks notified me that he had no facilities to protect it and refused to allow it to remain there. The barrel was brought to the court house where it was kept under proper lock and all subsequent purchases have been handled in the same manner.

"The alcohol was drawn from the barrels and delivered to either the Community Hospital or the Relief Home as needed and there could be no reason for a short age of alcohol at either institution as the county permit allowed over one hundred gallons per annum and there has never been occasion to purchase more than fifty gallons, although every demand from the hospital for alcohol was met promptly.

"Under the permit which has been renewed without question each year since 1921, the county has paid less for alcohol per annum than it formerly paid each month.

"There have been several changes in the management of the Community Hospital and much argument as to the system of bookkeeping and the records employed there. Any discrepancy in the tally of the alcohol used is undoubtedly due to such causes and I regret very much indeed that yesterday's articles may tend to give the people of San Mateo county any other impression."

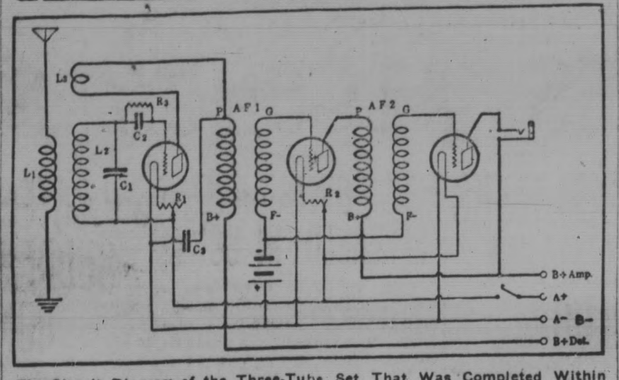
RADIO



The Circuit Diagram of the Three-Tube Set That Was Completed Within One Hour.

By CHESTER CHARLTON
in Radio World.

The one-hour set is not one that simply lasts an hour, but one that it takes only one hour to make. It will last for many years and will render excellent service.

The radio side of the circuit consists of the justly famous three-circuit tuner. The audio channel comprises two stages of transformer coupled amplification. Hence the three tubes. All three sockets are a part of the detector-amplifier unit. Only the radio side need be wired. The only change I made was to cut the one-inch lead that comes from the F posts of the two audio transformers to insert a "C" battery (as shown in diagram).

Coil Information.

Any of the commercial three-circuit tuning coils may be used in this circuit. The one shown tunes with a .0005 mfd. variable condenser. It has a pancake tickler. However, some other sort of tickler will do as well. For instance, if you wind your own coil, you may use a 3½-inch diameter tubing for the stator, 4 inches high, placing 10 turns of No. 24 double silk-covered wire near the top (L1). Terminate. Leave ¼-inch space and wind 45 turns of wire in the same direction for the secondary (L2). The tickler would consist of as many turns of the same kind of wire as you can put on any tubing that will rotate inside the secondary. Remember that a shaft has to pass through the secondary, hence wind the tickler coil so as to leave anchorage room thereon for the shaft where it must be joined to the tickler form.

A straightline capacity tuning condenser was used. This has semi-circular plates. The fact that the condenser has an insulation end-plate does not mean that the condenser is not low-loss. It is. To make the tuning more convenient on the lower waves, and yet avoid crowding on any part of the dial, a converted dial was used.

The Parts Needed.

You need get only a 7 by 18-inch panel, a .005 mfd. variable condenser, a dial vernier, if you use frequency condensers, or a converter, a 7 by 17-inch baseboard, a grid leak, and a knob.

The layout of the parts is very simple. As the condenser is the only real tuning element, it alone has a dial. The tickler coil is turned by means of a knob, even a rheostat knob, or, if desirable, a 2-inch dial may be used here. The rheostats, jack, and even the fixed condensers, including the grid condenser, are part of the detector-amplifier unit.

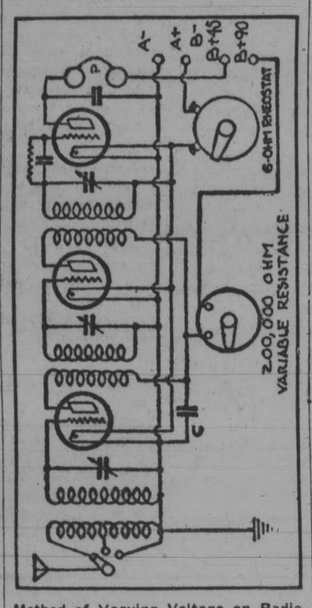
The wiring precautions include these: Connect the rotor plates of the variable condenser to the grid return side of the coil L2, the 45-turn coil, if you make your own. This is the connection made to "A" plus. Connect the aerial coil so that the ground and "A" plus connections adjoin. This accounts for two terminals, one each of primary and secondary, and the other connections of these windings go to aerial and grid condenser, respectively. The tickler or movable coil may be joined to the plate of the detector tube in either manner, that is, either terminal to plate.

Actual Time, 57 Minutes.

The set shown in the photographs was completed in 57 minutes, but we will call it an hour. This included the drilling of the panel and the mounting of the dial, two items that require a little care and hence took a good fraction of the time. There are only about a dozen connections to make. The leads are brought out to binding posts on the unit, and a marked battery cable should be used for convenience in establishing contacts at the batteries.

Standard Type of Tuned Radio-Frequency Outfit

The growing tendency to use high voltages in audio frequency amplifiers often results in the application of the same voltages to the radio frequency tubes, due to the fact that separate binding posts for the radio frequency and audio frequency "B" positive taps are not provided for in many sets.



Method of Varying Voltage on Radio-Frequency Tubes.

The accompanying illustration shows a convenient and practical method of varying the voltage on the radio-frequency tubes, by the use of a high resistance.

The circuit shown is not new, but is a standard type of tuned radio-frequency outfit, illustrated to show where the high resistance should be connected in such a set. The same idea is applicable to intermediate stages of a superheterodyne or to other forms of radio-frequency amplification.

Where the amplification voltage is between 90 and 135 the resistance may be 200,000 ohms maximum, although much lower values usually will give the desired results. The principal point to be considered in choosing such a resistance is its ability to go down to fairly low values of resistance.

Note that the variable resistance is connected in series with the supply to the radio frequency tubes only, the 90-volt tap in the illustration connecting to the audio frequency tubes directly.

Any variable resistance of suitable value may be used in this manner to control voltage on R. F. tubes. The illustration shows the Centralab resistance. The Bradleyohm and the Clarostat are others which should serve satisfactorily.—Cleveland News.

Variable Grid Leak

A suitable set of values for a grid leak would be 1 megohm, 2 megohms, 3 megohms, 5 megohms and 7 megohms. A means may be provided for bringing these values in action, which may be secured by wiring a tap switch so that it may be used to switch any one of a number of grid leaks into the circuit. This will provide a definite, positive value of grid resistance to suit the requirements of various groups of stations, according to their distance and power.

Battery Clips Corrode

The "A" battery terminals, and especially the spring clips to which the battery wires are attached, should occasionally be coated with grease to prevent corrosion. When the "A" battery is charging it liberates gas which will collect on the battery terminals and eventually corrode and ruin them. Even before they are eaten away very far the set will get noisy.

Message From U. S. Is Taken by Oslo Amateur

Recently an amateur wireless operator in Oslo picked up a message from the United States transmitted by way of Stuttgart, Germany, and addressed to Alf Jensen, Norway. Next day he reported that Mr. Jensen had received his message. The story illustrates the wonderful possibilities of the wireless. The message was sent originally by Jensen's brother on the whaling ship Charles Clark Ross, on the way from the Ross sea to Newfoundland. He sent the message on a mere chance as a greeting to his brother. An American amateur picked it up and sent it along. By chance the wireless station at Stuttgart picked it up from the American amateur and a Norwegian amateur—also by chance—picked it up from Stuttgart. Only a few hours had elapsed from the time of dispatching the message in the Antarctic till it reached Oslo. The words were in the Norwegian language, but in spite of transmission through one English-speaking and one German-speaking country not a single word was misrepresented.

Headphone Quality

Many have the mistaken notion that the resistance of headphones is a measure of their quality. Actually, radio headphones of 2,500 ohms resistance may be much better than others of 5,000 ohms resistance. The resistance is determined by the length, size and kind of wire used in their construction. Their performance is a matter of proper engineering design and the use of good materials.

"C" Battery Needs Care

Give a "C" battery as much consideration as the various other batteries, as excessive heat will wear it down and will impair the quality of reception.

The Microfarad

A "microfarad" is a unit of capacity. It is equivalent to one-millionth of a "farad." Micromicrofarad is a millionth of a millionth of a farad.

FISH 5 DAYS FOR ATLANTIC CABLE

Thrilling Experiences Attend Mending of Strands in Heavy Gale.

Fayal, Azores.—The deep, black Atlantic wave mountains roll on endlessly, kicked up house-high by the furious northwest wind. The sky is leaden. For eleven days and nights our cable steamer has been rolling in this sea. Only once did we see the smoke of another steamer.

The ocean here is void, and the cable ship is pursuing its lonely path.

We had to repair a broken trans-Atlantic cable of the line between New York and Fayal, and therefore our steamer, the Great Western's Colonial, had gone out to the very midst of the ocean.

We found the water was 3,000 fathoms deep. Three miles to the unexplored bottom of the Atlantic! But somewhere in that depth lies the nerve of the world, the cable, and it thrills with the messages of the people of two hemispheres. The Azores-America cable must be hauled on board and repaired. Of course, such repairs are not rare, but they seldom have to be done out on the sea, usually only near the shore, where a ship lets its anchor drag negligently.

Clasped to Bed of Sea.

How repair a cable in the very heart of the Atlantic? A cable hardly an inch wide. The water pressure of many thousands of tons holds it clasped to the bottom of the sea. Unknown currents deep down in the ocean may have washed it miles away from the spot where it was laid decades ago. It is thousands of kilometers long—who can tell where the defect is located?

The Azores-New York cable is 2,328 miles long. Precise machines at the end stations in New York and in Fayal register the resistance of the current of this cable. The normal figure is 4,656 degrees; that is, each mile of the cable has a resistance of two degrees.

With this figure the cable is intact. But of late it registered only 2,312 degrees in New York and only 1,444 at Fayal. The cable was defective. According to estimates, the defect was to be sought around 1,600 cable miles east of New York. The Colonia, therefore, drove out in the heavy northwest gale. It found the place 1,600 miles east of Sandy Hook and fished five days for the cable. The five-fingered grasping hook was searching on the sea bottom incessantly. Day and night the Colonia swam about in a slow pace, from north to south, and from south again to north.

Watch Day and Night.

Day and night the engineers stood watching at the dynamometer and looked at the red needle on a horizontal scale which indicated the resistances in numbers of tons. A hundred times the machine telegraph gave shrill signals to the engines, the ship stopped to haul in the hook. Very slowly the steel rope was wound up over a drum on board. The steel rope is hardly as thick as a man's thumb, but it is 6,000 meters long and can lift forty tons. It is worth $2,500,000, and each unexpected turn of the winds may tear this heavily burdened rope.

Now and then the red needle jumps back a few hundred fathoms. This means that the hook has lost its prey. Somewhere it has come upon a submarine obstacle, perhaps a rough rocky wall. After hours the hook comes on board and brings along a heavy beam, the remainder of a wrecked ship. Which ship? When wrecked? Whence did it come? Nobody knows the answer.

On the sixth day the hook works with great regularity and finds the cable. The hook has a cutting edge so as to slash the cable as soon as it finds it, clutching only one end of it instead of hauling up the entire tremendous weight of the whole cable. The end to which the hook had caught was carefully brought on board. It was the end that connected with America.

1,600 Miles of Cable Intact.

The engineers connected it with the galvanometer, which lay in a small dark room under deck. When the cable steamer lays a new line it is in constant connection with the station where the work of cable laying started and it is in connection with the station because of the apparatus in that small dark room. A thousand miles of cable may be sunk in the ocean, 3,000 more miles may be rolled up in the storeroom of the ship—the cable dispatches from the sending room of the cable steamer run through the entire 4,000 miles to the furthest shore.

The end we caught gave a perfect connection with New York. The 1,600 miles of American cable thus were intact. New York apparently controlled this part of the cable without any difficulty. It gave signs of complete control till the Colonia landed in Pim bay, on Fayal. The obstacle, therefore, must have lain somewhere more eastward. Apparently a submarine earthquake had torn up the bottom of the sea and damaged the cable, which, strange to say, showed no traces of animal or plant life.

On other cruises we usually hauled up strange plants and animals up to 1,000 fathoms depth. But this cable, which lay for decades at a depth of 3,000 fathoms, showed nothing but slight mineral crystallizations on the gutta-percha insulation cover, which had remained unchanged since the day when the cable had slipped down to the bottom of the Atlantic ocean. The great cold of the deep sea, which is always just a bit above zero, had kept away all life and preserved the cable.

A thousand miles of new cable lay in the storeroom of the steamer. The repair could be done in no other way than by attaching a new cable to the old one. The weather made it almost impossible to look for the other end of the cable and to find its defective spot. It might have taken months, and every day cost $3,000. So the old cable was welded into one with the new cable and was sent down once more to the bottom of the sea. It was a wild, storming and rainy night. Like a black serpent the cable rolled overboard. The engineers held close watch in front of the scale of the dynamometer, which showed the figures 30, 40, 50, 60, 70. Each figure meant a hundredweight. Usually the free, pending end of the cable weighs two or three tons before touching the surface of the water. Of course, the more water it displaces, the deeper it gets, the lighter the cable weighs on board.

Anxious Moments.

But now suddenly the dynamometer went up considerably—80, 90, 100—120! What has happened? For moments it wavered between 130 and 140. The cable would have to tear! The pending piece of the cable reached the weight of seven tons—that is it was above the limit the steamer could stand. And just then there were great depths in the sea indicated by our map. If the cable touched no ground for many more miles it would have to tear and disappear in an endless depth, where the diverse currents would make it impossible for us to find it again.

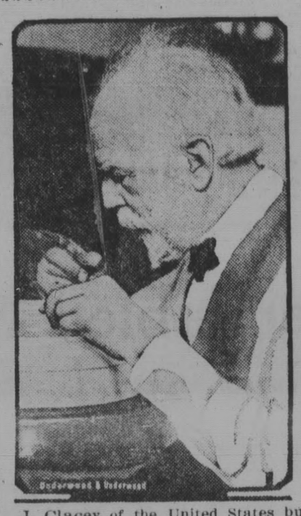
The whole crew was alarmed. The breaks required the greatest attention now. The pulling power of the cable had become so great that it threatened to tear out all the rest of the cable which was rolled up in the storeroom.

One moment of negligence—and hundreds of miles of cable would shoot without any resistance down into the ocean, while destroying everything in their course.

The tragedy of the first cable ship, of the Great Western, revived terribly in our memory. . . . Then, thank goodness, the dynamometer showed a reaction. But once more it went up dangerously and threatening.

For twenty-four hours the Atlantic cable was in constant peril. Then the ground of the sea became regular and the laying of the cable went on without disturbance. The new end of the cable was fastened at Fayal a few days later.

Succeeds in Making "Flattest Flat" in World



J. Clacey of the United States bureau of standards in Washington has just succeeded in making the "flattest flat" in the world. He has ground and polished three disks of fused quartz until their surfaces are absolutely flat to better than one five-millionth of an inch. The disks will be used by the bureau in standardizing master gauge blocks. Mr. Clacey is shown with one of the disks.

Study of Posture as Basis for Hypnotism

San Francisco, Cal.—Experiments with insects and animals disclosing that they can be put into a condition resembling hypnosis by being placed on their backs and prevented from righting themselves has prompted Prof. H. H. Severin of the University of California to investigate the possibility of inducing hypnotism of human beings through posture.

Professor Severin, explaining this method of hypnotizing animals, said: "When an animal is laid on its back the instinct is for it to right itself. Prevented from doing so, the animal's muscles become tense, and it assumes a state of hypnosis. It is devoid of feeling and reacts to only one or two simple impulses.

"The only animals I have found that cannot be thus hypnotized are cats and dogs. They are immune because they have been handled so much by humans."

Lace Comes High

New York.—Old royal lace costs money. A jabot worn by Marie Antoinette brought $3,700 at auction; a bit of rose paint given to La Marquise De Pril by Louis XV sold for $2,750.

Good Start

Attached to the early morning train going east was a car for laborers. The lattice gate between this car and the one in front was closed, so that no one who belonged in the front passenger car would stray into the special car. A passenger standing on the back platform of the regular passenger coach peered curiously through this lattice gate and the open door into the car beyond. A wag in the laborers' car promptly bleated out, "Ba-a-a, ba-a-a." Immediately his comrades took it up, and "Ba-a-a, ba-a-a," they went in chorus, in solos, in duets, for all the world like a cattle train loaded with sheep. It ended in a howl of laughter from all the men and as the car pulled out of the station it was evident they had put themselves in good humor for the day's work.—Springfield Union.

SILENCE LURES SHIPS TO DEATH

Mystery of "Graveyard of Pacific" at Last Is Solved.

Victoria, B. C.—The mystery of the "Graveyard of the Pacific," where scores of ships have piled up on the rocks near this city, at last has been solved. Scientists who have investigated the amazing reports of deep-sea skippers are convinced that a "zone of silence," through which no fog signals will penetrate hovers about the southern end of Vancouver island and makes Race Rocks one of the most feared places in the seven seas. No foghorn, however loud, is sufficient to warn ships which are caught in the silent zone, investigators report, and only a complete change in the location of present lighthouses will cope with the problem.

This weird phenomenon has been suspected for many years. Masters of ships entering the Strait of Juan de Fuca, inbound to the United States and Canada from the Orient, have reported that they could not hear the powerful sirens of the Race Rocks lighthouse, while these signals were deafening at other points not far away. Masters of vessels which have been wrecked near Race Rocks asserted that they heard no warning from the shore. Year after year vessels from many lands have joined he large company already resting in the graveyard.

Strange Experience Reported.

The matter has been brought definitely to the attention of the Canadian authorities by the strange experience of the Holland-America freighter Eemdyk, which piled up on Bentick island, not far from the Race Rocks fog signal. Capt. A. Rynink, master of the ship, reported that no signals could be heard before the fog-hidden rocks of Bentick island were grinding into the vessel's hull. Masters of other vessels further away than the Eemdyk from Race Rocks, however, heard the signals clearly.

Experts who have been investigating these reports have concluded that tide and wind sweep together at certain times off Race Rocks and create a zone of "dead air." A ship, once in this space, is insulated against outside sounds apparently. The zone of silence shifts over a radius of many miles under the influence of changing winds and tides, it is believed. This is the only explanation scientists can find for the fact that ships have experienced the inability to hear signals at many points where at other times conditions are quite normal.

Sound Fails to Penetrate.

On one occasion investigators on board a small tug could see the lighthouse keepers' figures at Race Rocks, a few hundred yards away, and yet could not hear the noises which were heard plainly at other places miles away. The weather at this time was quite clear, which showed that fog has nothing to do with the silent zone.

Shipping men believe that the problem can be overcome by the removal of the Race Rocks lighthouse fog signals to a point out of line with the silent zone. In this way it is hoped the "Graveyard of the Pacific" would be made as safe as any other portion of the Pacific coast of America. Much has been done for shipping in this area already by the powerful direction-finding wireless station established by the Canadian government at Pachena, on the west coast of Vancouver island. From this station vessels ascertain their position by wireless and thus avoid the shore. After they have entered the Strait of Juan de Fuca, however, they depend upon foghorns to warn them away from the rocks. It is at Victoria that they are in danger of becoming surrounded by the fatal vortex of "dead" air through which no warning sounds can be heard.

Only One Woman Bobbed in Population of 11,000

Paris.—The fortified island of Re, lying off La Rochelle, believes it holds the world's record for the scarcity of the bob among its female population—at least a record for that portion of the civilized world which has been swept by the mania for shorn locks. In a population of 11,000 there is only one bobbed female head.

Until four months ago, all the women of Re wore their tresses long. Then came Henri Beraud, winner of the Goncourt prize for literature in 1923, and with him came Madame Beraud with her hair modishly clipped. Her example, however, has not been followed by the women of Re, who, like their sisters of all the islands of the French Atlantic seaboard, are proud of their beautiful long hair and would consider bobbing it a desecration. The trade of the barbers of Re still is limited to male customers, whose average is about one shave a week and a haircut every two months.

El Segundo is in every respect a modern city, both commercially and as a beach residential community. The Standard Oil company refinery, covering approximately 1,300 acres, employing from 1,500 to 2,000 men, with its huge concrete tanks, shipping pier, and fine office headquarters situated in a beautifully parked area, represents modern commercial development of the highest rank, according to reports. The General Chemical company's plant, representing an investment of millions, swells El Segundo's monthly pay roll to a total of $245,000. For any city of 2,700 population, east or west, these figures tell a story of commercial advantage requiring no further elaboration.

Stating that the dairy industry is basic to the prosperity of Kings county, and that any considerable consumption of butter substitutes would work its impairment, the Kings county farm bureau is mobilizing the industrial, business, banking, and farming interest in a concerted and county-wide campaign against the referendum movement, the purpose of which is to defeat the bill introduced by Assemblyman Frank Johnson of Hardwick, Kings county, to regulate the manufacture and sale of butter substitutes in this state.

Mother's day was fittingly observed in all California prisons. Through the prison department of the Salvation Army, inmates of the state's penal institutions were presented with specially designed badges bearing the inscription "Mother" outlined against a cluster of red and white carnations. In addition, Salvation Army mothers visited prisons to confer with prisoners and held special services at the San Francisco county jail, Alcatraz barracks, Mare Island naval prison, Folsom and San Quentin penitentiaries.

Auburn's (Placer county), hope for a federal building received a serious setback when it was announced in Auburn, recently, that the post office department had authorized the local postal officials to obtain a ten-year lease upon suitable property for a post office building. The late Congressman J. E. Raker had several times made an unsuccessful effort to have a federal building erected in Auburn at a cost of $60,000, and at the time of his death a bill to that effect was pending in Congress.

It was doughnut-eating day in Stockton recently, with thousands of "sinkers" being delivered to citizens by Camp Fire girls. The Stockton Camp Fire organization began a campaign a short time ago to raise $1,000 for the entertainment of delegates to the national Camp Fire executives' convention to be held in Stockton May 29 to June 3. It required over 200 Camp Fire Girls and Boy Scouts to deliver the palate ticklers.

Manager Arthur E. Lang of the Queen Colony Fruit Exchange, at Corona, Sonoma county, says that returns from oranges and lemons are the largest this season in the history of the organization. Already 789 carloads of citrus fruit have been shipped and total shipments are expected to number 1,539. Last year the total shipments were 1,142 carloads. Returns amount to $845,000, as compared with $732,000 last year.

Figures made public in the office of the city manager of Chico, show that during the entire year of 1925 building permits for structures having an aggregate value of $289,267 were issued. During the first four months of the present year building permits having a total construction value of $120,555 have already been issued as against a valuation of $89,330 for the corresponding period of last year.

Declaring that for the most part the exhibits at Sutter's Fort, Sacramento's most famous landmark, are in exceptionally good condition, and that there are possibilities of making of the fort one of the most attractive and interesting historical museums in the country, Harry C. Peterson, recently appointed curator of the museum, has filed a preliminary report on the museum with the board of control.

Road work is in progress on the Imperial valley-Julian highway which connects with the state highway at Kane Springs a few miles west of Westmoreland. According to the supervisors of Imperial county, permanent work is to be done in grading and leveling with some graveling, to the San Diego county line and the road is to be ready for traffic sometime in the latter part of May.

Thomas M. Gannon, state legislative counsel, announced the new supplement to the index of the laws of California, is just off the press and is ready for distribution. The book, to be distributed by the state printer at a nominal cost, contains a complete index to all the laws enacted at the last three sessions of the legislature and tables of amendments.

What is declared to be the biggest day's logging in the history of California was recorded at Central Camp, when the Sugar Pine Lumber company yarded and loaded 101 cars in one day. The company now is 5,000,000 ahead of last year's record, with a goal of 120,000,000 set for the season.

With flood waters in the cloudburst areas north of Bakersfield and east of Taft rapidly subsiding, Kern county is taking stock of the damage, which will amount to more than $1,000,000. Already the task of repairing roads and property damaged by the tearing waters has been begun.

Standing as a concrete expression of the confidence of Bakersfield citizens in the future of their city, the community hotel, known officially as Hotel El Tejon, erected at a cost of approximately $650,000, was thrown open a short time ago, to the inspection of the public.

Got Back at Critic

An actor, who had been persistently ridiculed by a newspaper dramatic critic, met the critic at a social function. "Do you read my criticisms?" the writer ventured to ask. "Yes," replied the actor. "You see I am a late riser, and when I buy my paper yours is usually the one left on the news stand."

Fort of National Anthem Fame Now Being Restored

Baltimore.—Restoration of Fort McHenry to its condition and appearance during the War of 1812, when its bombardment by British ships inspired Francis Scott Key to write "The Star Spangled Banner," has been begun.

The old fort, which for a century and a half has played a prominent part in American wartime history, is about to become a national park.

The star-shaped breastworks on the edge of the Patapsco river have been allowed to crumble into a wood-grown ruin. Now they are again to stand as in September, 1813, when, for a day and a night, they refused to yield to the steady fire of 16 British fighting ships intent upon reaching Baltimore.

The work of restoration was made possible by federal, state and city appropriations. It is in charge of the Society of the War of 1812, aided by the Maryland Historical society.

Fort McHenry had its inception in 1776, although the star fort was not erected until 1795. It was known as Whetstone Point until the War of 1812, during which it was rechristened in honor of James McHenry of Baltimore, first secretary of war under George Washington.

Birds' Trills Rival Roar of Gotham "L"

New York.—Thousands of bird lovers are included in New York's teeming population, and it has been noted that they reside almost entirely in those sections given over to households of moderate incomes.

Along the roofs on several of the East side's drab and tortuous streets can be seen a succession of pigeon cotes and the ubiquitous canary trills bravely against the roar of the elevated from frequent windows along the tracks.

The pigeons of Custom House square and Battery park are well known to tourists, as are the robins of Central park (in season), but only the cliff-dwellers of Broadway know that at certain well established corners the assertive sparrow meets in daily, noisy convention.

VESSEL RETURNS SAFELY AFTER 130 DAYS AT SEA

Schooner, Believed Lost, Cheats Death Which Grimly Stalked It for Several Weeks.

San Pedro, Cal.—The four-masted schooner Irene, which came into port recently a "phantom" ship after being given up for lost, is being prepared to return to the service of commerce.

While the half-starved crew recuperated from the effects of weeks of short rations, the vessel's master, Capt. Allen E. Rosendal, took steps toward the disposal of the ship's cargo of lumber, originally billed for Florida delivery when the steamer sailed from Gray's Harbor, Wash., 130 days ago.

Arrival of the schooner barely cheated death, which had grimly stalked the ship for weeks. Two sailors, Fred Fale and G. L. Petersen, had broken under the meager diet and were critically ill in their bunks when port was reached.

Blown far to sea by perverse winds and then becalmed in the South seas, the vessel's crew escaped death from starvation and thirst only through good fortune that had failed them in every other phase of their voyage. When they were ready for the end, with less than five gallons of fresh water left in the storage tanks, the sky darkened and torrents of rain struck the vessel. Rain caught in sails replenished the supply of drinking water.

Seining 2,000 pounds of sea food, kept them from starving. Ten cans of tomatoes and a barrel of rain water remained of the 90 days' supplies the vessel carried when it started its voyage.

A foul bottom, together with a heavy load aggravated the schooner's hard luck. According to Captain Rosendal, the ship had not been on dry dock for 16 months before it started its trip, and in the tropics more sea life attached itself to the bottom.

While playing pinochle April 9, Captain Rosendal and his wife, who made the trip with him, heard the announcer at a radio station in Oakland announce in saddened tones that although the Alvena, sister ship of the Irene, had arrived safely at Miami, the latter apparently had been lost at sea with all hands.

The Irene left Gray's Harbor December 14 last, on what was to have been a race with the Alvena. Although the latter had departed six days earlier, the Irene was looked upon as the favorite, being a faster vessel.

Birds Migrate to U. S. With Own Wings Idle

Boston.—Birds no longer use their own wings in at least one type of migration—they travel by airplane. Dr. John C. Phillips, in a lecture here, told his hearers how Hungarian partridges, destined for introduction in American game preserves, are carried from Czecho-Slovakia to London in special cages on planes, and then transferred to fast ocean liners for the transatlantic voyage.

The Hungarian partridge has made itself thoroughly at home in the West, Doctor Phillips said, but so far has not been successfully introduced into the eastern part of this country.

Why One's Hair Curls

Why should one child's hair be curly and another's straight? The explanation, where neither parents, grandparents, nor great-grandparents have had curly hair, is that "deferred heredity" is responsible. Some remote ancestor has had curly hair.

The "curly germ," if one may put it that way, has been passed along the line of life, but has not taken effect for hundreds of years. Then, for some reason, it does, and a curly-haired child is born. Originally all hair was straight; curly hair was produced by wrong dieting.

The oldest hair tonic, made for an Egyptian queen, consisted of the paw of a dog and the hoof of an ass boiled in oil with dates!

THE WORLD COURT

ROBERT M. CLARKE and Congressman Lineberger, candidates for the office of United States Senator, have come out against the World Court. This makes an issue in the coming primary. Senator Shortridge voted for it. Professor Hyde has not yet announced his position, but doubtless will do so in the near future.

An attempt is being made to arouse the passions that have always endangered international security—hatred and distrust.

Those who oppose the World Court denounce it as a trap laid for the United States by sinister enemies. War under modern conditions is a menace to civiliation. Of this the last struggle is convincing evidence.

Arbitration is the only basis for peace. The reasons for opposing the World Court must therefore be compelling. The situation requires the exercise of deliberate judgment. There is danger in the attempt to stampede the country by the appeal to passion and prejudice.

The traditional policy of the United States, from Washington down, has been to support arbitration as a means of settling differences between nations. President Coolidge in recommending adherence to the World Court, stated that it was a step required by this traditional policy. An attempt is being made to arouse suspicion that the obligation assumed will involve us in the political quarrels of Europe.

The obligation we have assumed is in writing, and the writing therefore determines precisely what the obligation is. When an individual signs a note for a thousand dollars, the note itself determines what he owes. A suspicion that he owes more, no matter how strong, does not add a penny. For the same reason suspicion cannot enlarge our World Court obligation.

The language of the agreement is so simple that he who runs may read. The articles under which the World Court is organized state clearly and unequivocally that it cannot hear any case between nations unless BOTH NATIONS CONSENT THERETO.

Our written agreement adhering to the Court provides that in each instance the consent of both the President and the United States Senate are necessary. The World Court cannot act on any matter affecting our interests until this consent is on file.

To the question what cases involving our interests will be heard by the court, the answer is, only those cases the President and the Senate believe should be submitted to it.

The burden is on Candidates Clark and Lineberger to show that this particular written agreement, not some other agreement, is a menance to the nation.

President Harding, Secretary Hughes and President Coolidge have declared that this agreement is merely the application of our traditional policy. The Republican party in the 1924 National Convention approved it as such.

Something more than suspicion is required in the minds of Republicans to discredit the judgment of the two Presidents, Secretry Hughes and the Republican party. —Editorial in San Jose Mercury.

MAN OUT OF DOORS

YEAR by year as the spring weather comes and the camper is abroad in the land, we see one familar spot after another where we have enjoyed ourselves in former days, closed to the public; fenced in and signs of "No Tresspassing" posted on every post. Sometimes we feel a little resentful that the owner who does nothing with the land himself should exclude our little party who could enjoy itself in the cool shade of some wild tree. Then as we drive along farther we see why this has come to pass.

Did you ever notice a spot where picnickers have been? Where a huge edition of a Sunday paper is scattered all over creation and hangs in festoons from every bush and shrub, where tin cans, paper plates atnd pickle baskets add to the disorder of the scene? Is it any wonder that owners of property are adverse to having picknickers on their land?

Here in San Mateo county, in close proximity to a great city, we are particularly cursed with this type of tourist. In fact this county is taken as an example by the California Automobile Association of what results from disorderly picknickers.

If motorists would leave a clean site behind them for the next party, they would not only be living in accord with the Golden Rule, but would be making it easier to find a convenient picnic place on their next holiday. Leaving a spot littered with garbage and refuse is bad citizenship, poor sportsmanship and short sightedness. It is almost as bad as some city dwellers whom we have seen, who when coming out into the country on a holiday, put all their empty tin cans into a sack and throw them off somewhere along the road.

If we could sit in judgment upon such people we should condemn them to walk all of their lives upon cement pavements, and never set foot on the green grass of the great outdoors, which God made clean and intended man to keep it so.

QUEEN VICTORIA

ON Monday the British Empire will celebrate the 108th anniversary of the birth of Queen Victoria. Reigning over the great empire for more than sixty years, Victoria won for herself, not only in the hearts of her subjects but in the world as a whole the place of the best beloved queen in the world. Her reign comprised an era in the history of the world and especially in England of the greatest prosperity, literary achievement and general contentment. So it has come to pass that a quarter of a century after the death of the "Little Lady of Windsor" the 24th day of May is still observed by Britons in every quarter of the globe, and will be for years to come.

SAN CARLOS

Mr. and Mrs. Robert L. Simpson entertained at a delightful bridge party at their home on Friday evening. High scores were made by Mrs. H. DeFreece and Mr. R. D. Schott. After the game refreshments were enjoyed by the guests which included Mr. and Mrs. R. D. Schott, Mr. and Mrs. H. DeFreece, rMs. Andrew Johnson, Mrs. O. D. Fairfield and Mr. and rMs. R. L. Simpson.

W. H. Curley, father of Mrs. N. E. Davis after spending several months' vacation visiting with his daughter and son-in-law, returned to his home in Stuart, Iowa.

Miss Jean Gregor of San Mateo was the guest of honor for a delightful surprise party on Friday afternoon at the home of her sister, Mrs. Roy W. Allen, the occasion being the celebration of the birthday anniversary of Mrs. Gregor. Music and cards were the diversion of the afternoon. Luncheon was served at a prettily decorated table, pink and white were the predominating colors. Around the table were seated the Mesdames Jay Allen, Victor Allen, E. Hampton, E. J. Wheeler, Arlington Dennery, Harry Miller, Harry Gregor, Leo Mehler, Roy Allen and Miss Jean Gregor. Miss Allen was the recipient of many beautiful gifts.

Mrs. A. W. Russell was hostess on Friday afternoon complimentary to her young daughter, Mary Jane, the occasion being her sixth birthday anniversary. There were games for the younger folks, followed by refreshments. The table was prettily decorated. In the center stood a large kewpie doll holding streamers to each corner of the table, the doll being mounted on a large birthday cake. Balloons were strung from the electric light fixtures adding a novel touch to the affair. The little guests included Jack Duttweller, Betty Ann Simpson, Josephine Frizzie, Rosita Zimmerman, Alberta Arends, Jean Wallace, Alphoeus Russell and Mary Jane Russell.

The San Carlos Library Bridge Club held its regular meeting at the school house on Thursday afternoon. High scores were made by Mrs. Norman H. Martin and consolation score by Mrs. Thomas Plowmann. The members that attended this meeting were the Mesdames Andrew Johnson, Norman H. Martin, Thimas Plowmann, William C. McElroy, U. Updike, Lyle Clark and Mrs. K. Farnham.

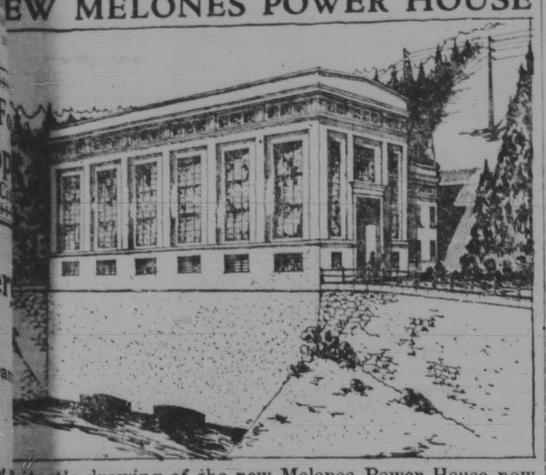
NEW MELONES POWER HOUSE



Architect's drawing of the new Melones Power House now building erected by the Pacific Gas and Electric Company on the Stanislaus River, East of Oakdale. The Oakdale and South San Joaquin Irrigation Districts recently voted $6,000,000.00 in bonds for the construction of a dam two hundred feet high.

These districts impound water and sell it to the Power Company for power generation, after which it will go into the irrigation ditches and canals. The payment by the Power company for the water will retire the district's bonds and the interest during the life of the bonds.

The power house will cost $2,500,000 and have an installed capacity of 30,000 horsepower.

East Palo Alto

A large crowd attended the Grange picnic at Kendall Dell and enjoyable day of sports and a social time with a barbecue was spent. The ball game between Mt. View and East Palo Alto resulted in a score of 11 to 15 in favor of East Palo Alto. A chalenge will be sent to Mt. View to play another game at the Pomona Field Day on June 5th in Santa Clara County Park.

Reports of Grange committees working on matters of community interest were rendered at the meeting in the school auditorium Tuesday evening. Five applications were balloted upon and nine new applications were received. A game featured the lecture hour. At the next meeting the suggestions for community work will be read. The next meeting will be Tuesday evening, June 1st.

The raspberry season is on in earnest with a shortage of pickers. The crop is going daily to the eastern markets and word has been received that it has reached there in fine condition with the demand greater than the supply. The officers elected at the meeting last week of the berry growers were: president, Harvey Reynolds. vice-president, V. Dignon; secretary, H. J. Schneidewind. The regular meetings are being resumed for the summer season, meeting the 2nd Friday evening of each month.

The loganberries are starting to ripen and the first shipment of berries in the San Francisco market were from East Palo Alto this year. They are bringing fifteen dollars a chest for the beginning of the crop.

Charlie Wolverton left Monday on an auto trip east, accompanying Wm. Cook of Palo Alto part way on his auto trip to New York. Charlie plans to pass some time on his way back in Colorado and will be back home, it is expected by June 15th.

Helen Crowther was a passenger to Los Angeles Monday to pass her vacation with relatives.

East Palo Alto continues to have an unwelcome guest. During the absence of George Richards and family at Lodi last week some one pried open a windoy, and several things were stolen and the house completely ransacked and left in confusion. In addition to taking some jewelry and clothing the wires leading to the radio were cut and the radio and battery taken.

The Francisquito Players have as president this year Alfred Gravestock. Alfred Schilder is vice-president and George Hand 2nd vice-president. Johanna Vander-Laan is secretary and Carroll Da Mant, treasurer. Plans are being made to purchase an inside set of scenery to use for dramatics.

Mrs. J. T. Ames of Berkeley, who passed a few days last week at the W. S. Wardlaw home, returned home Sunday.

George Marshall has moved his cottage to another location on his acreage and will build a modern home where it stood.

Mrs. Vance Brown and baby son are guests for a couple of weeks with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Lehr.

Mrs. Flora Wolmer and two sons, George and Jeff of San Francisco, were visitors the first of the week at the A. O. Anderson home.

J. .D Leeds of San Francisco is passing his vacation with his brother and sister-in-law.

The poultry committee of the Grange were business visitors in San Franisco Monday.

Harry Bligh has purchased the Paul Talley property on Donahoe street.

Andrew Harran, who was operated on in St. Francis hospital, has been gaining rapidly and was able to return home this week.

Mrs. Martin Anderson was tendered a surprise party by the members of the Missionary Society of her church last week. She was presented with a token of appreciation of her work as president of the organization, from which she is retiring after six years of service. The social evening was enjoyed by several church people.

Cleaning Without Odor by the F. Thomas Process

Our many years of experience has taught us that it is impossible to do perfect cleaning with cheap, inferior methods. That is why we found it necessary to invest nearly $500,000 in the equipment of a plant and the establishment of an expert organization to do the quality of work demanded by our customer.

With the "F. THOMAS PROCESS we do not only remove every particle of dust but we return your garments without that usual disagreeable smell of gasoline Every drop of gasoline we use in cleaning is redistilled and very highly refined.

Raw gasoline — the kind that you buy fo you automobile — is full of heavy oils and unfit for cleaning fabrics. It is little better than ordinary distillate and leaves a sickening gasoline smel in your clothes.

MOVIES

WIT IN ACTION

"Lady Windermere's Fan," the Ernst Lubitsch production for Warner Bros., which is coming to the Sequoia Theatre next Thursday and Friday, May 27-28, is regarded by Lubitsch as one of the most perfect plays ever written. In his direction of this film version of the famous Oscar Wilde play, he has of necessity discarded the brilliant epigrams of Wilde and substituted action. The audible wit of Wilde will be seen changed to the visible wit of Lubitsch when the picture opens with one of the most sparkling casts assembled for any production.

Irene Rich plays Mrs. Erlynne, the sophisticated charmer who returns to London after many indiscretions determined to enter society. May McAvoy plays Lady Windermere, and Bert Lytell, Lord Windermere, whose marital happiness is threatened because he is kind to the fascinating Mrs. Erlynne. Ronald Colman (by arrangement with Samuel Goldwyn) will be seen as Lord Windermere and whose schemes to separate her from her husband are frustrated by the fascinating Mrs. Erlynne. Edward Martindel plays Lord Augustus and Helen Dunbar, Carrie Daumery, and Billie Bennett are seen as three duchesses.

Julien Josephson adapted the play to the screen, to complete satisfaction of Lubitsch, and the photography is credited to Charles Van Enger.

NOTICE OF SALE OF BONDS OF REDWOOD CITY SCHOOL DISTRICT, AN ELEMENTARY SCHOOL DISTRICT OF SAN MATEO COUNTY.

The Board of Supervisors of the County of San Mateo, hereby invite sealed proposals for the purchase of Fifty Thousand ($50,000.00) worth of bonds of the Redwood City School District, an Elementary School District of San Mateo County, State of California, and bids therefor will be received by said Board of Supervisors up to the 7th day of June, 1926, at the hour of ten o'clock A. M. of said day when all bids received will be opened at the Chambers of said Board. Said bonds are numbered from one (1) to fifty (50) inclusive and each is of the denomination of One Thousand Dollars, ($1,000.00) and bears interest at the rate of five per cent (5%) per annum, payable semi-annually, on the 1st day of January and the 1st day of July of each year, principal and interest payable in lawful money of the United States at the office of the Treasurer of said County of San Mateo, at Redwood City, California, and will each bear date July 1, 1926, and the number of years said bonds will run when payable are as follows:

Bonds Nos. 1 to 3 inclusive, $1,000.00 each, to run one year;
Bonds Nos. 4 to 6 inclusive, $1,000.00 each, to run two years;
Bonds Nos. 7 to 9 inclusive, $1,000.00 each, to run three years;
Bonds Nos. 10 to 12 inclusive, $1,000.00 each, to run four years;
Bonds Nos. 13 to 15 inclusive, $1,000.00 each, to run five years;
Bonds Nos. 16 to 19 inclusive, $1,000.00 each, to run six years.
Bonds Nos. 20 to 23 inclusive, $1,000.00 each, to run seven years;
Bonds Nos. 24 to 27 inclusive, $1,000.00 each, to run eight years;
Bonds Nos. 28 to 31 inclusive, $1,000.00 each, to run nine years;
Bonds Nos. 32 to 35 inclusive, $1,000.00 to run ten years;
Bonds Nos. 36 to 40 inclusive, $1,000.00 each, to run eleven years;
Bonds Nos. 41 to 45 inclusive, $1,000.00 each, to run twelve years;
Bonds Nos. 46 to 50 inclusive, $1,000.00 each, to run thirteen years;

Said bonds will be issued in pursuance of the election held in said school district on the 8th day of March, 1926, and in conformity with the laws of the State of California, and pursuant to and in compliance with and in the form prescribed by resolution and order of said Board of Supervisors adopted May 10, 1926, and entered in the minutes of said board to which reference is hereby made for greater particularity.

Such proposals and bids may be addressed to said Board of Supervisors and bids may be made for either the whole issue of said bonds or for parcels thereof. Bids must be for not less than the par value of the bonds bid for, and be payable in cash in lawful money of the United States. The right is reserved to sell said bonds as a whole issue or in parcels and to reject any and all bids. Bids must be accompanied by a certified check, certificate of deposit or cashier's check upon or of some responsible bank in the sum of $1,000.00 payable to the Chairman of said Board of Supervisors and conditioned that the bidder will purchase said bonds at the price bid and pay for the same at the office of the Treasurer of said County of San Mateo, within five days after notice given that such bonds are ready for delivery.

The assesed value of the property situated within the said school district as shown by the last assesment rolls is $4,825,170.00 and there is a present outstanding bonded indebtedness of $160.000.00.

The Redwood City School District, an Elementary School District, San Mateo County, California, includes within its limits the incorporated Town of Redwood City, which is the county seat of San Mateo County, and the district has a population of approximately 8000. The district has within its limits two banks, several industrial plants and a large and prosperous residential district. There is no existing litigation in the district involving any school matters and at the present time here is no difficulty of any nature threatening litigation.

Said $50,000.00 worth of said bonds hereinabove referred to are part of an issue of $85,000.00 authorized by an election held in said district on March 8, 1926, at which election 548 votes were cast in favor of the issuance of said bonds and 24 votes were cast aaginst the issuance of said bonds.

By order of the Board of Supervisors of the County of San Mateo.

The Water Bearer

By J. ALLAN DUNN

Author of "A MAN TO HIS MATE" "RIMROCK TRAIL"

© By Dodd, Mead & Co. WNU Service

THE PICNIC

SYNOPSIS—Idly fishing Hermanos creek, in California, Caleb Warner, civil engineer and a New Englander, is witness of the end of a coyotte pulled down by two wolfhounds, urged on by a girl rider. Admiring the hounds, he introduces himself, and learns her name is Clinton. With western hospitality she invites him to the ranch to meet her father. At the Clinton home Warner learns his new friend's name is Betty. He is welcomed by her father, Southern Civil war veteran and owner of Hermanos valley. He tells them something of his ambitions and his feeling that he is destined to be a "Water-Bearer." In the town of Golden Warner shares an apartment with his old Columbia college chum, Ted Baxter, carefree and somewhat dissipated youth, only child of his widowed mother, who controls the family fortune. At a club luncheon Baxter introduces Caleb to Wilbur Cox, leading business man and president of the water company which supplies the needs of Golden. He gives Cox an inkling of his ambitions, and Cox, impressed, invites him to dinner that night. During dinner Cox asks Caleb to call at his office next day. He does so and Cox arranges a meeting between Caleb and Hinckley, the water company's chief engineer. Baxter tells Caleb he is in difficulties with a girl, Mary Morgan, Cox's stenographer, who insists he must marry her. With Hinckley, Caleb looks over the water company's source of supply, the Crystal springs, in Hermanos valley. Prospecting in Hermanos valley, Caleb meets a man, Evans, who boasts of his ability, through "divining rods," to locate water without boring.

"But it ain't no good," he said, suddenly disconsolate. "'Cause why? What's the good of water 'less you can use it? The sile here ain't thick enough to put dirt in yore fingernails. It wouldn't grow a radish. An' the wells wouldn't be artesian. They'd have to have windmills to work 'em. And, as I said, they ain't no sile. Seems like a plumb bit of foolishness to put water where it ain't no manner o' use, don't it?"

"Have another cigar," said Caleb. "Where do you suppose all the water comes from?"

The Welshman looked at him pityingly.

"You fish that stream an' you'll see. This is Caliente sink. The stream runs into it like dishwater goes down the drain. Wish you luck, mister. An' thanks for the smokes. Some day, if you come this way, an' I'm feelin' better, I'll give you a demonstration. I'll be glad to see you any time. Kinder lonesome here in this oven, but it's baking me back to health."

Caleb went on upstream in a maze. It seemed, though his Yankee mind affected to scoff at the suggestion while it considered it, as if he had come into close touch with mystery. He fingered the emblem on his seal and smiled. Had the sign of the zodiac, Aquarius, really charged him with destiny, leading him along the trail to be the Water-Bearer to the frontier city of the sands?

Half a mile up the canyon from where the gravel road branched off, an arroyo entered from the east through a bench that was thick-furred with underbrush of desert species. Only a trickle of water was in the almost dry watercourse, barely lasting to mingle with Hermanos creek.

The place was wild enough, and silent. A grass-grown road chose either bank at random, fording the creek at frequent intervals. He found stones to keep his feet dry as he crossed.

Up the road he began to come across evidences of an abandoned rancheria. There was little left but the roots and a scattering of tentative tendrils, scantily leaved. He passed a corral, no longer tenable, a lean-to shed without a roof, a leaking flume, a tumbledown wall of stone, and then he became aware that he was walking through what had been once a garden, a stately garden, still with a certain dignity.

The garden had attracted him unconsciously and he had left the half-obliterated road. He did not go back to it but wandered on to the house that rose above the cypress guard. Caleb's footsteps rang hollowly as he passed over the flags and glanced in through where a door had failed as warder. He was beginning to people the place with such ghosts as he imagined should represent the former occupants when he heard the high, clear sound of laughter at the very instant that his nostrils conveyed to his nerves of smell, thence to palate and to stomach—so that his mouth watered and his appetite proclaimed itself with no uncertainty—the smell of broiling meat.

His hope of something from a ranch larder, a glass of milk, a piece of cake or pie, if nothing more substantial, had died with sight of the deserted house. The tracks he had been trailing must lead too far for him to follow uncertainly. And now he had blundered on to a picnic—a California picnic—which means a barbecue.

Caleb's stomach yearned, rose in revolt against his manners and so far won that he ventured to the outer door of the arch and peered through.

The laughter had ended but he could hear the chatter of young voices, men and women, hidden somewhere down by the stream that had wheeled to flow in front of the old house and sparkled through the interstices of a tall, thick mantle of wild-grape, flung over the arms of the trees.

In front, between house and stream, there was a smoking pit straddled by an iron grid on which two swarthy men were turning joints of meat from which came the smell that had loosened all the spigots of Caleb's gastric economy. One of them looked up. Caleb had no time to disappear. No wish, once the mutual recognition had been made. The cook, el cocinero, was Luis Padilla.

The swinging screen of grapevine parted and two people came through, Betty Clinton in her riding togs and an upstanding young man in riding breeches, puttees and a shirt of silken tan, with a tan-colored stock about his neck. A tall, good-looking chap with a clipped yellow mustache and brown eyes, good teeth displayed in a hearty laugh, generally genial and eminently well pleased with things in general.

The girl was laughing, too, laughing so heartily in silvery carillons that she stopped from sheer lack of breath and then, regaining somewhat of gravity and lung power, called to Luis:

"What is it, Luis?"

"Senorita, eet eez el Senor Warner."

"Discovered, upstage, center, peering through the postern," said Caleb as he came out in response to the girl's instant and cordial greeting.

"You are just in time. Did you come on foot? How did you know we were here? Mr. Warner, Mr. Thurston."

The two shook hands while Warner explained the accidental happening of his arrival. Betty Clinton was giving some directions to Padilla and his assistant.

"Come on," she said, "and meet the rest. Dad's here. This is my annual picnic and barbecue. Birthday festivity, you know."

She took possession of him. The man named Thurston lagged behind as they broke through the vines and looked down upon a level bank of turf, fringed with ferns, just above the level of the creek. Two girls and an older woman were aiding and directing the laying of a table by two men. Clinton himself sat apart, back to the bole of a tree, smoking. He rose as Caleb came into view and the rest looked up.

"I'll make the introduction general," said Betty Clinton. "You can all make it personal later. This is Mr. Caleb Warner. I think I've mentioned him to all of you. And these are—Carmen Wilson"—she indicated a girl with black eyes, in a white dress, wearing a scarlet beret so vivid that its outline was fuzzy with radiance; "Mrs. Henry Vedder, Henry Vedder and George Brompton. The meat is barbecued. The enchiladas are at the height of their excellence. Be seated. Dad, you at the other end. Mr. Warner, next to me, at my right. All right, Padilla, bring on the carne. I hope you brought an appetite with you, Mr. Warner. Carmen, pass the enchiladas. Frijoles, if you like them better. They are our substitute for Boston beans, you know. And the salsa, Mr. Brompton."

She Took Possession of Him.

The meal was all animation. Good viands, good nature and a general bubbling over of high spirits.

Bits of the talk, allusions, chaffing remarks, together with little summaries supplied him by Betty Clinton, soon put Caleb in possession of surface information concerning the members of the party.

Thurston had been a bank clerk, losing his position in the merger of banking interests. But he had possessed sound commercial faculties and, backed to some extent by his uncle, he had started raisin growing in the Fresno valley. Now he owned hundreds of acres and was rated almost a millionaire, soon to pass that mark.

Henry Vedder was editor of the Pioneer, a weekly published in Golden, of recognized literary merit. His wife had a leaning toward modern esthetics, extending to her gown and her mode of hairdressing. She apparently saw nothing except through the medium of her husband and she hung on his every word in the attitude of one who eagerly waits the opportunity to encore the performance of a favorite dramatist.

George Brompton was an artist who specialized in mural work. He was the most diffident of all the company, with an especial shyness toward Carmen Wilson, which that vivacious personage did not appear to regard as the kind of tribute to her charms that she preferred.

Thurston and Betty Clinton had ridden down Hermanos canyon to the picnic on horseback. The rest had come in a buckboard, by the longer road, a wagon preceding with the materials for the barbecue. Luis Padilla had come mounted. The vehicles and the horses were stowed in the old barns. The whole party was returning to El Nido in the early evening, where Maria was now preparing a fitting dinner for the fiesta of her young senorita's birthday.

"You are to come, too," she insisted to Caleb. "And stay over tomorrow. I am not to be denied anything today and I make that an order. You need not feel that you are crowding or were not included in the original invitation. There is lots of room.

"You have made it an order," said Caleb. "That settles it."

Here again was a different side to the girl, he thought, as he listened to her lighthearted talk, admiring her quick wit. He caught himself watching her closely whenever she laughed. The inside of her mouth was as pink as a kitten's and she laughed without reserve, so that one caught a gleam of even rows of teeth that needed no dentist, backed by the rosy glow of health.

Caleb enjoyed himself thoroughly, the food, the company, the talk and the shady spot beside the stream.

After the meal, Betty Clinton proposed an excursion. Vedder claimed to have had an inspiration for a poem and said that he was going to try to put it on paper in the old garden. His wife was no more to be detached from him than a limpet from a rock. Clinton himself made the excuse that he was not feeling especially energetic.

"Then Mr. Brompton must stay to keep you company," announced Carmen. "You and Mr. Clinton can discuss that pioneer panel. Mr. Brompton," she went on to Caleb, while Brompton smilingly acquiesced in the arrangement, though the smile was as wan and lacking in warmth as a winter sun, "is working on a set of panels for Judge Hemingway's new house. They are to represent California, past, present and future. And Mr. Clinton is brim full of pioneer lore, aren't you, Mr. Clinton?"

It was obvious that Carmen Wilson intended to make the trip to the lookout a foursome. Clinton smothered a smile. Brompton seemed to be used to this sort of thing and the four started.

They were less than half way when Betty Clinton suddenly missed her camera.

"I have been intending to take a photograph of that view for two years," she exclaimed. "The light is wonderful. Wendell, you'll get it for me, won't you? We'll wait here. It's in the buckboard under the seat."

Thurston went swinging off on his errand and the three sat down to be comfortable until his return. The change of scene seemed to have put Betty Clinton in more serious mood.

"Have you found your opening yet?" she asked Caleb.

It looks as if Carmen Wilson intends to capture Caleb. Does Betty care?

Decries All Fear of Athletic Heart

College students need no longer fear that four years of hard football or track work will leave them with a shaky "athletic heart" in middle age. Experiments by Dr. Burgess Gordon of the Boston Peter Bent Brigham hospital on men and animals revealed that the heart, instead of enlarging after strenuous exercise, actually shrinks. Furthermore, no enlargement of the heart resulted after prolonged athletic training.

Doctor Gordon made his observations on Boston marathon runners, and rabbits with normal and abnormal hearts. The rabbits were exercised to exhaustion, and X-ray pictures taken immediately afterward revealed a shrinkage which took time to disappear. The strained hearts of marathon runners also got smaller, Doctor Gordon said, and did not return to normal for several hours.

Athletes were studied to note any permanent enlargement of the heart which could be blamed on the exercise, but it was found that the most prolonged vigorous efforts did not produce the much dreaded hypertrophy of the heart.

Reasonable Deduction

A well-known criminal lawyer who has a remarkable memory was accosted on the street one day by a man who, he remembered, had a long prison record. The man produced what he termed a rare type of parrot, but the lawyer immediately recognized it as nothing more than a painted sparrow. "This bird flew into my room," he began. "What species do you think it is?" The lawyer after pretending to examine the sparrow, replied, "No, I can't tell you exactly what breed it is, but judging from the company it keeps, I should say it is a jail-bird."

Ya know how people feel about a thing that's spankin' new. They're allus 'fraid of mars and scars and such. And every time I'm in it pop'll watch each thing I do. That's why I can't enthuse about it much.

The seats 'er all upholstered with a cloth of silver gray, an' all the wood and metal's shiny bright. But that don't mean a thing ta me. I just found out today they wouldn't let my dog in. That ain't right.

Aw, what's the fun of ridin', when I leave my purp behind? I hate to see him whine an' fume an' fuss. I don't see why my father didn't wait and try to find a plain old common second-hand bus.—Detroit News.

Will These Two Fight It Out?

The above photograph shows Manager Bucky Harris of the Washington baseball team with Connie Mack, pilot of the Philadelphia Athletics. Will these two managers fight it out for this year's pennant? Critics think so.

So Cobb Went Back to Finish His Sleep

Here is a story of Joe Sargent's nimble wit:

When Sargent was a Tiger infielder the team went to Hamilton, Ont., for an exhibition game. Sargent made the trip, but did not appear in the lineup.

On the way back a group of the players were discussing international politics or something. Ty Cobb was stretched out at the end of the car dozing.

"I just wish somebody would tell me what that guy brought me over here for," spoke up Sargent, somewhat disgruntled.

Cobb straightened up.

"Well, I'll tell you why we brought you along," he told Sargent.

"Never mind," replied Sargent. "You are supposed to be asleep."

And Cobb slumped back into his seat.

Plugs Up Big Gap

This veteran big leaguer, Everett Scott, who formerly saw much continuous and active service with the Boston Red Sox, New York Yankees and Washington Senators, seems to have plugged up the shortstop spot for the White Sox. If Scott and Manager Eddie Collins can stand the gaff for the full season, the experts figure the Sox have a great chance for the American league pennant.

University of Illinois has a shot putter in Dan Lyon, who, while not either a Kuck or a Schwarze, is coming along rapidly enough to suit Coach Harry Gill. Lyon, who is only a sophomore, puts the shot around 47 feet much better than his best mark of last season. While he did not carry off the major honors in either the relay carnival or the Big Ten championship meet, at the same time he is expected to do something outdoors before the season has drawn to a close.

BAD ARM HINDERS COMBS' THROWING

Has Everything Else in Way of Greatness.

American league base runners have discovered the same weakness in the throwing apparatus of Earl Combs, the New York American outfielder, that American association runners took advantage of when the former Kentucky school teacher was playing for the Louisville Colonels.

Combs, a great fly shagger, a great batter, fast of legs and a good slider, soon showed in the association that he couldn't throw. He was slow in getting his throw away, and the ball lacked steam and the necessary carry with a zipping bound at the finish. Base runners soon were taking an extra base on hits to Combs.

That is what they are doing in the American league. Combs is playing in one of the most difficult fields of any big show ball park. The shadows of the triple deck grand stand of Yankee field play no part in making the center suburb easy to patrol, and with the lively ball of present-day baseball outfielders are compelled to play so far back, that Combs, with not a strong arm, has little chance to cut off base runners.

With a man on first and a hit to center field the base runner never slacks his speed at second. He just keeps on his way and seldom does Combs nail his man at the far base.

Even with that weakness and also a weakness in the handling of ground balls the former Louisvillian has won himself a home in New York. He can hit, run bases with rare speed and go far for fly balls.

Bananas Prove Popular as Food for Training

Bananas have become popular as a training food with British football players. Professional trainers of athletes have come out in favor of the banana on account of the readiness with which it is digested and the fact that it contains a higher percentage of calories than most other fruits.

Football players want to avoid any risk of "stuffing," but during cold weather they want to be sure that whatever they eat will contain as many heat units as possible.

The trainers maintain that before a football match, for instance, when the players are pressed for time, or between periods of the game, when they are more or less exhausted, the banana is the most suitable food, especially as it carries a guarantee that until its natural germ-proof wrapper is peeled away it is free from contamination.

Several New Pilots in Western League Circuit

One-half of the clubs of the Western league are under new managers this year, Des Moines, Lincoln, St. Joseph and Oklahoma City. The pennant-winning demons at Des Moines have John (Shano) Collins, famous first baseman of the White Sox and Boston American clubs, to pilot them toward another title.

Fred Luderus, who brought Oklahoma City its only Western league pennant in 1923, returns to the club this year. The Lincoln club will be managed by E. H. (Dutch) Zwilling, former coach of the Kansas City American association team and ex-major leaguer. Joe Kelly will manage and play center field for the St. Joseph club. Kelly has been in the majors and later the Western league for years.

Manager Speaker Wants No Secret About Hurts

Manager Speaker does not intend his players shall keep things secret from him. In a recent practice game Chic Autry dropped a pop fly in front of the plate hit by Pat McNulty but recovered the ball in time to head off Pat as the latter had not run out his hit.

Pat's failure naturally caused the manager to become somewhat peeved, whereupon Pat explained that he had a slight charley horse. "Why didn't you tell me before the game?" asked Spoke, "and I would have excused you from playing. I would have much sooner stuck someone else in to play right field than have one of my vets fail to run out a hit."

Price of Balls to Jump

The price of golf balls is going up. A large manufacturer has announced that standard balls which have retailed for 75 cents are to sell for 85 cents, and the 50 cent variety for 60, the advance being due to the high price of rubber. Prices were still higher during the war, the standard kinds selling at $1 each and the fancy ones at $1.25. The pre-war price has been as low as 35 cents, or three for $1. It will pay the golf player to take good care of his balls.

NEWS REVIEW OF CURRENT EVENTS

British Nation Contending With Paralyzing General Strike of Unions.

By EDWARD W. PICKARD

GREAT BRITAIN entered on one of the most critical periods of her recent history last week. Because the mine owners and miners could reach no settlement of their disputes and the government would not longer continue the mine subsidy, the miners of the nation had struck. This was bad enough, but the general trades union congress promptly ordered that the miners be supported by a general strike of about 5,000,000 union workers to begin at midnight Monday. Prime Minister Baldwin, declaring the constitutional rights had been challenged, asserted negotiations could not proceed until the general strike order had been withdrawn. The king issued a proclamation of state emergency under which Baldwin was empowered to rule by decrees and which made Sir William Mitchell-Thomson, postmaster general, the economic dictator of the country. The law does not permit the prime minister to order compulsory military service or industrial conscription, but every other step to meet the situation was taken by the government and volunteer workers by thousands came to the front.

At the appointed time the general strike went into effect, the first workers called out being those in transport, including railways, ships and docks; printing, including the press; metal and heavy chemical groups; building trades except those at work on hospitals and housing; electricity and gas, including power lines. Of these only the chemical workers did not obey the call. Sanitary and health services were not interrupted. All over the United Kingdom business was paralyzed, and in various parts of London and other cities and towns there was bloody rioting. Naturally the situation was most serious in London and the government's efforts to meet it were concentrated there, though troops and warships were moved to strategic points elsewhere.

Organized labor in America, France, Belgium and other countries showed sympathy for the miners' strike but rather refrained from approval of the general strike. Soviet Russia, however, did not hesitate to show its delight at the plight of Great Britain, and it was reported that the Moscow government had forbidden the export of foodstuffs to England. The French miners took steps to prevent the shipment of French coal across the channel.

As the days went on the situation gradually improved, according to the statements in the British Gazette, the government's newspaper. This was notably true of railway transportation of the food supply and the light and power services.

Prime Minister Baldwin told the house of commons that "the general strike threatens the existence of the ordered government and comes nearer to a proclamation of civil war than we have known for hundreds of years." This would appear to be true; but the assertion of labor leaders and of Lloyd George, that not 90 per cent of organized labor in Great Britain would vote for a revolution, seems equally true, because almost all the workers are of British nationality and at heart loyal to their country.

At this writing there are rumors afloat in London that some sort of a compromise will soon be reached. It is difficult to understand how this can be, since the government cannot and will not recede from its position that the strike must be called off before negotiations can be reopened, and the trades union congress still has plenty of funds and claims that the workers' response to the strike call exceeded all expectations.

FRANCE felt the effect of the British strike when the franc began to tumble, reaching on Thursday the new low mark of 32.14 to the dollar. Finance Minister Peret, who called a conference of bankers, said he thought the franc's fall was due to the sale of francs by the British government to bolster up the pound sterling. The French produce markets also were glutted because of the crippling of shipping lines to England. In Paris the debt settlement with the United States was considered to be contributory to the crash of the franc, for the opposition groups in the parliament were preparing for an attack on the Briand cabinet on the score of the arrangement signed in Washington by Ambassador Berenger.

In the United States senate, also, the settlement will be assailed by the group headed by Borah, Reed of Missouri and Pat Harrison of Mississippi. Harrison has asked a public hearing at which the terms agreed upon can be attacked and defended. This group probably cannot prevent ratification by the senate, but it could delay this consummation injuriously.

ON MONDAY, for the tenth time in the history of the United States, the senate sat as a court of impeachment when Federal Judge English of the eastern district of Illinois was summoned for trial on the charges preferred by the house of representatives. Vice President Dawes presided and nearly every senator was in his seat. The defendant, through counsel, made a general and particular denial of all the charges against him. On Wednesday, when the case was resumed, Senator Willis of Ohio moved to postpone the trial until November 10, mainly for the reason that the senators, especially the 34 who come up for re-election on November 2, will be "more composed in their minds and in better humor in the cool of November than if they took up their duties as judges during the broiling heat that soon will envelop Washington." Despite bitter opposition the motion carried, it being understood that Mr. English shall not sit as a judge in the interim.

THERE was rejoicing in army circles when the house passed the five-year program bill for the army air service. The expenditure of $75,000,000 for new airplanes, two 6,000,000 cubic foot capacity dirigibles, and a number of training balloons, is expected to make available 1,728 airplanes for active flying units of the regular army and 371 for allocation to National Guard and organized reserve flying units. By providing for the training of enlisted men as pilots, the creation of temporary ranks in the corps, and correction of existing injustices in flying pay the bill is counted upon to relieve conditions which have caused complaint in the present air service.

CORN BELT congressmen and the farm organizations that are supporting the Haugen price fixing farm relief bill served notice on the Republican and Democratic leaders that they will not accept the Tincher bill or any other as a substitute for the Haugen measure. However, passage of their pet bill in the house now seems less likely than ever, since some of the Southern Democrats on whom they relied, are backsliding. These Southerners say the tariff features of the Haugen measure would commit them to support of the protective tariff principle.

JAMES E. WATSON, who seeks to succeed himself as senator from Indiana, easily defeated Claris Adams of Indianapolis for the Republican nomination. Senator Arthur Robinson was nominated to fill out the unexpired part of the late Senator Ralston's term. For the Democratic nomination there were six candidates, and as none of them obtained a clear majority the choice of a man to oppose Watson is left to the state Democratic convention.

THE house judiciary committee reported its second impeachment resolution of the session last week, recommending favorable action on a resolution seeking authority for a full investigation of impeachment charges against Frederick A. Fenning, District of Columbia commissioner. Charges relative to activities of Mr. Fenning in receiving fees for acting as guardian for insane veterans and other wards of the local courts have been aired before the house committees on District of Columbia affairs and on veterans' legislation.

REPRESENTATIVE EDITH NOURSE ROGERS of Massachusetts made her maiden speech in the house, pleading for passage of the Johnson bill to include as eligible for hospitalization those World war veterans whose service records do not clearly indicate their disabilities are the direct result of their service in the army or navy. Mrs. Rogers was warmly applauded but the bill was shelved when it was shown that estimates of its cost to the government varied from $500,000 to many millions a year.

PEACE negotiations between the Riffians and the French and Spanish at Oudja, Morocco, broke down completely when the tribesmen demanded that the allies release fifty prisoners in exchange for as many which they were willing to set free, as a preliminary to further discussion. The French offensive against Abd-el-Krim had been prepared and began promptly, the attacking columns striking north toward the Mediterranean.

PROBABLY very few people in this country knew there was another revolution in progress in Nicaragua. Well, there is, and it has gone so far that the Nicaraguan government has declared a state of war. This seems an unwise step for it virtually recognizes the rebels as belligerents and gives them the privilege of obtaining arms and munitions from neutral countries. The movement is led by Luis Beltram Sandoval and Elizeo Duarte. They have captured Bluefields and other towns and at last accounts were in control of the Rio Grande valley, which is the great banana belt. They stole $160,000 in unissued currency from the safe of the Bluefields branch of the National bank of Nicaragua, which is chartered under the laws of Connecticut and of which Robert F. Loree of New York is president. The American cruiser Cleveland has been sent to Bluefields.

WARD T. VAN ORMAN with the Goodyear IV won the national elimination balloon race that started at Little Rock, Ark., and will again represent the United States in the international contest for the Bennett cup. Van Orman landed near Petersburg, Va., having made 848 miles. This beat last year's international mark by eight miles.

NORGE, the great airship in which Amundsen and Ellsworth hope to sail over the North pole, started from Leningrad for Kings Bay, Spitzbergen, Wednesday, and made a successful flight to Vadsoe, northern Norway, where it stopped for fuel. The date of the start from Kings Bay has not been announced but it probably will be soon for Amundsen does not wish the Byrd expedition to get ahead of him. Byrd and his party already are at Kings Bay but were delayed by a mishap to one of their Fokker planes.

SEVEN long-term convicts from Chicago escaped from the Illinois penitentiary at Stateville after murdering a deputy warden and kidnaping a guard and a trusty. Five of them a few hours later encountered a posse in the village of Leonore and an exciting battle ensued. Three of the posse were wounded, one of the convicts was shot full of holes and three others were caught.

MOST notable of the week's deaths was that of Oscar S. Straus of New York, an eminent diplomat and the first Jew to hold a position in an American cabinet. He was appointed minister to Turkey by Cleveland and later was a member of the arbitration court at The Hague. President Roosevelt made him secretary of commerce and labor, and in 1909 he returned to Turkey as ambassador. He was Progressive candidate for the governorship of New York in 1911.

Prince Victor Napoleon, Bonapartist pretender to the throne of France, died in Brussels and his little son, Louis Napoleon, became the chief of the house of Bonaparte, to "reign" under the regency of his mother.

John W. Thompson of St. Louis, who was convicted with Colonel Forbes of defrauding the government, was saved from prison by death.

Insanity Defense of Mussolini's Assailant

Rome.—Defense counsel for Miss Violet Albina Gibson, sister of Lord Ashbourne, who attempted to assassinate Premier Mussolini on April 7, will plead that she is insane and will ask life confinement to an insane asylum.

A judicial committee, including the prosecutor, Miss Gibson's defenders and medical experts, paid the visit prescribed by law upon the premier, in order to judge the gravity of his wound. The committee reported that the wound in the premier's nose, caused by a pistol bullet of small caliber, was entirely healed.

Prof. Enrico Ferri, who is considered one of the greatest exponents of Italian criminal law, is attached to Miss Gibson's group of counsel. Premier Mussolini, upon seeing Professor Ferri, said that he was pleased "that Miss Gibson would be defended with the serenity of science."

There was a possibility, Professor Ferri said, that the defense might include in its testimony regarding the mental condition of Miss Gibson a psychological study of Mussolini himself.

Several times during her life, Professor Ferri said, Miss Gibson had been confined in insane asylums in England and Italy and had attempted suicide. On one occasion, some years ago, she tried to kill a girl friend with a knife, saying that she desired to repeat the sacrifice of Isaac by Abraham.

THE KITCHEN CABINET

(©, 1926, Western Newspaper Union.)

People have to live first before they can see, and they don't think until they are fed, and one needs always to have had enough turnips to see in them anything except food.—Mrs. Wilkins.

FOOD FOR THE DAY

The French are wonderful cooks, but they look with dismay upon our huge, juicy roasts and steaks. Mark Twain said: "There is here and there an American who will say he can remember rising from a European table d'hote perfectly satisfied; but we must not overlook the fact that there is here and there an American who will lie."

Onion Soup With Eggs and Cream.—Cut up six white onions thin and fry in a tablespoonful of butter until a light brown. Add a quart of water and a pint of milk. Season with a teaspoonful each of salt and sugar, a dash of red pepper and a pinch of mace. Cook slowly for an hour and strain; beat four eggs until light, add a cupful of cream and a tablespoonful of cornstarch, mixed with a little cold water; cook until the starch is well cooked before adding the eggs, as the soup must not be boiled after adding the eggs or it will curdle.

Jellied Chicken.—Dress, clean and cut up a four-pound fowl. Put in a saucepan with two slices of onion; cover with boiling water and cook slowly until the meat falls from the bones. When partly cooked add half a teaspoonful of salt. Remove the chicken, reduce the stock to three-fourths of a cupful, strain and skim off the fat. Decorate the bottom of the mold with parsley and hard-cooked eggs cut into slices. Pack in the meat, freed from skin and bones, and sprinkle with salt and pepper. Pour over the stock and place the mold under a heavy weight. Keep in a cold place until firm. In warm weather add a teaspoonful of gelatin to the stock.

Merridale Pie.—Take two cupfuls of drained crushed pineapple, one-half cupful of red currant jelly, one tablespoonful of confectioner's sugar, and one stiffly beaten egg white. Mix the pineapple, jelly and sugar and beat vigorously with an egg beater, then fold in the beaten egg white and turn into a baked pastry shell. Sprinkle with one-half cupful of grated cocoanut and place in the oven until brown.

Baked Chicken With Bananas.—Melt one-fourth of a cupful of butter, add one large onion thinly sliced, cut two young chickens into pieces for serving, cover and cook slowly, turning often; after cooking ten minutes add one cupful of chicken stock and cook until the meat is tender. Remove the chicken, put stock and cook until the meat is tender. Remove the chicken, put stock and onion through a sieve and add one and one-half tablespoonfuls each of butter and flour cooked together until smooth. Season with salt, pepper and a bit of cayenne. Arrange the chicken on a platter, pour the sauce around it and garnish the rim of the platter with sliced bananas which have been fried in butter. A teaspoonful of lemon juice and one-half teaspoonful of sugar may be used to baste the bananas while cooking.

Choice Cakes.

Wise mixing and careful baking are important points in successful cake making. If the cake is to bake an hour, watch the oven the first quarter or twenty-five minutes to see that it begins to rise; the second quarter it should finish rising and begin to brown; the third quarter it should finish browning and begin to shrink from the sides of the pan; the last quarter finishes the baking. If the cake begins to brown in the first quarter, it will not rise sufficiently, so careful following of this rule will insure a good cake, provided it has been well prepared.

A cake filled with large holes has too much of the rising agency—baking powder or soda and cream of tartar—or it has not been well blended. Careful mixing to thoroughly blend all the ingredients is vital in good cake-making. If a cake cracks open in the middle, humping itself up into an unsightly shaped loaf, it may be caused from too hot an oven or too much flour. The first five minutes in the oven a cake may be turned and shifted without injury, but after that leave it until it has fully risen before moving it.

Wedding Cake.—Take one cupful each of white sugar, brown sugar, molasses, coffee and butter. Six eggs, one teaspoonful of soda, two pounds of raisins, one pound of currants, one-half pound each of finely sliced citron and chopped dates, the same of figs, one pound of walnut meats chopped, one-half ounce each of orange and lemon extract, one teaspoonful of cinnamon, one-half teaspoonful each of cloves, nutmeg and allspice. Two cupfuls of chopped apples and salt to taste. Add four cupfuls of flour and steam three hours, then bake one. This fruit cake will keep for months and is better made at least two months before it will be served. Steaming the cake first insures a moist, good-flavored cake.

Natural Wood Best

It is generally admitted that wood finished in its natural shade cannot be worked as successfully into color schemes of decorations as the stained wood. It is also true that color brings out the grain and enhances the natural beauty of most woods.

If you want to buy a car on time

IT is to your advantage to buy the car that you can comfortably afford, on a payment plan that gives you a sure margin of safety.

General Motors has its own finance company, the General Motors Acceptance Corporation, operating the GMAC Plan. Through its service more than 1,000,000 families have purchased cars comfortably out of income.

On August 1 last, the price of this service, which had always been low, was further reduced. And the automobile-buying public is now saving millions of dollars annually as a result of this reduction and the influence of General Motors' leadership.

The purchase of automobiles on time is a universally accepted practice. The car is a utility and it is sound business to conserve capital and use credit. But buy on sound terms and at low rates. Any General Motors dealer will explain the advantages of the GMAC Plan.

Odd Strawberry Patch

Strawberries enough to supply a family for a season can be grown in a barrel. This has been demonstrated by a Californian, Delevan D. Johnson, says the Popular Science Monthly. A barrel in which holes have been bored is filled with dirt. In each of the holes a vine is set, and under each vine is built a screen platform to support it as it grows and bears fruit. As many as sixty vines can be grown in one barrel.

Samson Toad Stools

All the Samsons are not humans. There is tremendous power wrapped up in the spores of a toadstool. In the tropics a growth of fungus will in a few days smother a village or fill a gully. The other day in an English town newly laid paving stones measuring 22 by 21 inches and weighing more than 80 pounds, were lifted and pushed out of place by a patch of toadstools.—Capper's Weekly.

News of Menlo Park

To Have C. of C. Night At Theatre

At a meeting of the Menlo Park Chamber of Commerce held on Monday evening it was agreed to give a chamber of commerce night at the New Menlo Theatre next Wednesday night. The show house will be in charge of the organization that evening when local talent will appear besides artists from the city. Besides a comedy a seven-reel picture will be shown. In the event is successful the chamber plans to make it a monthly affair. The price of admission will be 25 and 50 cents. The Chamber of Commerce hopes to crowd the theatre that evening. Come and enjoy the signing of local beauties, the dancing of artists and a picture depicting a love scene and telling the prettiest love story ever told.

Asks Permission to Annex District

The North Palo Alto Lighting District has petitioned the board of supervisors for permission to annex adjacent territory so that the new district as proposed will include the North Palo Alto Sanitary District. When the permission is granted permission will be asked to place lights as follows: three lights on Oak avenue, between Willow road and Pope street; two lights on Willow road between Oak avenue and the Base hospital; two lights on Woodland road between Laurel avenue and the Middlefield road. The territory sought to be annexed has an assessed valuation of $40,100 and has sixteen families residing in it.

Chief Red Feather Here

Chief Red Feather has been here every evening during the week selling Indian medicine on the streets and giving entertainment before disposing of his wares. He is a splendid singer and a good speaker. Dr. White Wolf, who as a young man followed this line of business, was lured to the rostrum Wednesday night and gave an eloquent address on the merits of the medicine. Red Feather was selling and also spoke inception and cure of catarrh. The doctor displayed his old time vigor and cleverness on the speaker's stand. He was formerly chief of the Choctaw tribe of Oklahoma and in his young years wielded a big influence with various Indian tribes

SEQUOIA SPORT NIGHT TO BE NEXT FRIDAY

On Sports' Night, Friday evening, May 28, Sequoia High School is looking forward to one of its largest sporting events of the year in the Sequoia gymnasium.

According to a statement from Mr. Griffin and Miss Anderson, those in charge, there will be enough different events to give everyone an opportunity to witness his favorite activity.

The big event will be a basketball game between the North State Champs of 1923 and the North State finals of 1925 of which both were 130 pounds teams of Sequoia Those who have followed this sport in Sequoia will be more than glad for a chance to see the Mitchell-Thompson-Locitelli trio in action against the speedy men of last year's team.

The White Hopes, Sequoia's developing material for next year's basketball squad, will dribble against last years 110's.

There is usually fun and amusement when the faculty gets into the game Sports' Night will not be an exception, for the men faculty members will battle with the student body boy commissioners in a volley ball game. Thus far, the former have kept their line-up a secret, but they can always be depended upon to introduce new stars.

Pleasing variety of entertainment will be given by a series of drills and dances. The Block "S" drill team, coached by Miss Bradley, girls' athletic director, will exhibit figure marching.

Members of Miss Anderson's physical education dancing classes will entertain with various numbers which are as follows: Torch dance, Miss Eleanor Doxsee; Gangmen Dance by a chorus of girls; Bumble Bee dance by six girls; toe dancing by a chorus of six; Spanish Dance by a chorus of twelve girls. The last number was presented on Sports' Night last year and because of its beauty, the instructor has been requested to put on on again this year. Miss Inez Jamieson will accompany all dances.

Jack Kellogg and a group of boys will sing. Eldridge Douglass' jazz orchestra will play between events.

There will be admission of 50c for adults and 25c for students The money taken in will go to help finance the annual.

Yesterday through her attorney, David Cosgrave, Mrs. Frankie M. Lown filed a complaint in the office of County Clerk, Mrs. Elizabeth M. Kneese, against her husband, William H. Lown, for separate maintenance. The complaint charges extreme cruelty on the part of the defendant. Some time ago Mrs. Lown met with an accident in which she received injuries which leaves her a cripple for life. She asks for an order requiring defandant to pay her a sum of money each month to properly provide for her common necessaries of life and reasonable attorney fees.

To Whom It May Concern:

An application has been made to this office by the Southern Pacific Company to discontinue the maintenance of the tow boat used in connection with their bridge across San Francisco Bay, at Dumbarton Point, it being claimed by the applicant that the character of vessels passing through this drawbridge has changed sufficiently to justify the discontinuance of this tug.

Interested parties are requested to inform this office of any objections to the above change on or before June 15, 1926.

JOHN W. N. SCHULTZ,
Major, Corps of Engineers, District Engineer.

HI Y CLUBS WILL MEET HERE MONDAY

Final plans were laid last Monday evening at the regular meeting of the Hi-Y Club for the meeting next Monday evening. From all indications this will be the biggest meeting of the year. At this time the San Mateo Union Hi-Y and Comrade Clubs of San Mateo, Burlingame and South San Francisco will be in attendance. The activities will start with a track meet at 4 p. m. at the Sequoia High between the local Hi-Y and the San Mateo Union Hi-Y and Comrade Clubs. At 5:30 P. M., the South San Francisco Comlrades will play the Sequoia Hi-Y basketball. All will gather for supper at 6:45 P. M. at the Congregational church. The evening's program will be a "College Booster Night," which will be put on by a number of Stanford University Y. M. C. A. members. Indications are that more than 75 or 80 will be in attendance at this meeting. All the above clubs are under the Y. M. C. A. program.

The speaker Monday evening was Mr. Frank R. Riddell who gave a very interesting talk on "Opportunities Open to Young Men as Traveling Salesmen." Mr. Riddell displayed his membership card in the Y. M. C. A. which was a "Life Membership" issued to him by the Chicago Association in 1876, making him a life member for the past fifty years.

BOARD OF SUPERVISORS, COUNTY OF SAN MATEO, STATE OF CALIFORNIA.

Notice of Hearing of Petition to Annex Territory to North Palo Alto Lighting District of San Mateo County

By order of the Board of Supervisors of the County of San Mateo State of California, notice is hereby given that a petition was presented to said Board on May 10, 1926, which petition was signed by owners representing at least one-half in number of the total owners of real property and at least one-half of the assessed valuation as shown by the last equalized assessment book of the county in which said territory is situated, of the real property in said contiguous territory proposed to be annexed to said lighting district;

That said petitioners request said Board of Supervisors to take all proceedings necessary to annex all of the territory located within the North Palo Alto Sanitary District of San Mateo County and not included within the North Palo Alto Lighting District of said county. In other words, that territory be annexed to said lighting district sufficient to make the boundaries of said lighting district and said sanitary district coterminous;

That testimony with reference to said petition was heard by said board on the 10th day of May, 1926;

That on the 17th day of May, 1926, the same being the next regular meeting after the meeting at which said petition was presented, said board regularly fixed the time and place of hearing of said petition and of any objections thereto and of any objections to inclusion of property within said proposed annexation for the 14th day of June, 1926, in the Chambers of said Board of Supervisors in the Court House, at Redwood City, California.

ATTEST:
ELIZABETH M KNEESE,
County Clerk, and ex-officio Clerk of said Board of Supervisors.
